MANHOOD THE ISSUE.

MANHOOD IS TO BE the paramount issue in the present campaign, and on this issue Democracy has nothing to fear. Pessimists whine and say the money power rules the nation, that corruption is everywhere in public life, but Alton Brooks Parker, the man, stands out to give the lie to the assertion. His life has been laid bare to the country. The simple story of his career from farmer boy to the highest judicial position in his state has been told and retold. His beautiful home life has been pictured in all its phases. No blot has been found anywhere on the record. As husband, father, citizen and judge the republic has produced no better example.

Back of all this is the manhood of the man. It was manhood that in an age of sordid commercialism made Judge Parker content with his home in the country and his simple life. It was manhood that in the atmosphere of selfish politics enabled him to keep the emine of his office free from the slightest stain. It was manhood that spoke when his party dodged a burning issue and he announced that the presidency would never come to him unless it came in honor.

It has been the chief glory of the republic from the beginning that when a crisis has arisen, the man has stepped forward to meet it. The time has now come to rescue the nation from its carnival of "gold, greed and glory," and Parker is on hand to do the work. People have followed Roosevelt up the dizzy heights of destiny till they feel fearful dangers yawning at their feet, and they are ready to bless the man who will lead them back to safety. There is no secret in the tide that has set in toward Parker. It will increase in volume as the issues are more clearly defined.

It will be especially fortunate for the Democracy if Judge Parker shall prove to be a party leader. There has not been a time in the last thirty years that the Democracy has not been in a large majority in the United States. Lack of leadership has kept it out of power. William McKinley was twice chosen president by Democratic votes. These Democrats and with them thousands of Republicans are rallying now to the standard of Parker.

The telegram sent by Judge Parker to the St. Louis convention has led people to expect great things of him in the future. If the sound sense and courage of that message is a correct measure of the man, then indeed has the Democracy found a leader it will be a pleasure and an honor to follow. Should the letter of acceptance be pitched in the same high key; should the great issues before the people be met with the same integrity, a rally to the standard of Democracy will follow such as has not been seen in modern times.

FORESTS OF PHILIPPINES.

IN A RECENT LETTER to the Chicago Record-Herald William E. Curtis, writing from Manila, touches on a source of Philippine wealth that is not generally understood in this country. We refer to the great forests that cover a considerable proportion of the islands. Mr. Curtis says there are upwards of 5,500,000 acres of valuable timber in the Philippines, of which fully 500,000 acres are now the property of the United States. They have been a part of the crown lands of Spain. The correspondent continues:

"The annual growth of pine, cedar, mahogany and hundreds of other varieties of hard wood is estimated at 1,000,000 cubic feet, which is about three times the annual cut of the United States. Twenty-five per cent of this annual growth is going to waste because there is no one to cut and use it, and no transportation facilities by which it can be taken to market.

"It is actually cheaper to bring pine from Oregon to build Fort William McKinley than to cut in forests within sight of the city. There is one reason why railroads are needed over here, and some of the lines that have been surveyed will make this timber accessible. Within a few years, doubtless, you will find sawmills scattered all over the archipelago, but foresters say that it will take 100 years at the present extravagant rate of consumption in the United States to exhaust the supply to be found here without considering the possibilities of renewing the forests as they are cut down."

For many years American economists have been greatly perturbed over the denudation of our forests. They have not hesitated to express the fear that within a short time, perhaps within the next 50 years, there will be no such thing as extensive forests in the United States. Whether these fears are justified or not it will be comforting to know that in the Philippines there is a practically inexhaustible supply of timber, and that, too, of the most desirable kind. This supply will be available for the United States, no matter what disposition is finally made of the Philippines.

If the Republican colonial policy is adhered to the forests will be under the direct control and supervision of the nation. If the Philippines are given their independence under an American protectorate, as the Democrats believe should be done, the forests will still be available for our uses. In the meanwhile, as Mr. Curtis suggests, it would be a good idea to build enough railroads into the wooded Philippine country to make possible the exploitation of the forests.

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE.

IF FAITH could enable people to fly, the success of the John P. Holland flying machine would be established already. But faith, though, it often works apparent miracles, is not the only thing necessary to successful competition with the birds in aerial navigation. The recently published stories of Mr. Holland's device do not indicate that he has completed a single successful test. Nevertheless he asserts, with all the confidence in the world, that within five years, men will be flying from New York to Chicago by daylight on wings to be supplied by himself at a cost of not to exceed $10 per set.

A description of the machine says, somewhat vaguely, that it "consists of four wings with bamboo frames which will be attached to the arms and waist of the person using them. The apparatus will not weigh more than twenty-five pounds, and he (Mr. Holland) declares any man will be able to use it on sight and fly without any elaborate preliminary training. And with this as a basis the inventor talks confidently about lighting speed in the air and flying machines within the reach of the poorest."

He says: "In less than five years men will spread their wings and fly like a bird. Without any more elaborate machinery than that of ordinary walking he will make flights at the rate of from fifty to one hundred miles an hour. He will fly to Chicago in a day. He will make a short flight to Washington to see his friends and will fly back in time for supper, and without more trouble or energy than would be expended in the same time at walking, probably without as much exertion."

He will take a course with or against the wind or at any angle he wishes, at his own pleasure, and he will use no other device to attain buoyancy, but simply will mount to the height sought by the same means as do creatures endowed by nature with feathers.

Mr. Holland declares that it will be possible for a man to alight in safety wherever and whenever he pleases. It will be as easy for a man after practice to fly right into his office window as to alight on the street at his door," he adds. "Now this all sounds mighty well but most people will require a few grains of salt, just for seasoning, before they swallow the story. The trouble is that it is too good to be true. Mr. Holland has met with a considerable measure of success in his submarine boat inventions but his success in man's other unnatural element, the air, remains yet to be demonstrated."

AN IRISH PROTEST.

THE ANCIENT ORDER OF Hibernians has decreed that the stage Irishman must go. At a recent session of the organization in St. Louis the members took up considerable time in a vigorous discussion and denunciation of the Irish caricatures that appear on the stage. At how the Hibernians are going to enforce their decree of extermination is not made clear. And they say the comic supplement Irishman must go, also; likewise the jokesmiths and the artists who have made the Irish their specialty will be obliged to find a new field of endeavor.

There is no denying the statement that the Irish have been grossly caricatured on the stage and in the so-called comic supplement. People who have no acquaintance with the race except the acquaintance gained from the stage and illustrated supplement burlesque might be inclined to think all Irishmen wear fringes of red whiskers, dance on the slightest provocation and crack bad jokes during every hour of the twenty-four. It is impossible to believe, however, that any American is so ignorant as to believe all he sees on the stage or in the joke department. No real harm is done to the Irish by the caricatures.

The Irish burlesque is no whit worse than the Jew burlesque, the German, the Swedish, the English or any of the others in the long list of one sees on the stage and in the newspapers. If every race or nation that is held up to good-natured ridicule should rise and enter a protest it would soon be impossible for any burlesques at all to be presented. Why, Americans caricature themselves, and somehow the nation has managed to survive. We fear the Ancient Order of Hibernians is composed, to a large extent, of Irishmen without a sense of humor, starting at that statement may appear.

No real good will be accomplished by the protest. The Irish are celebrated for their love of a joke. They should not object when the joke is on them. We have the word of an English author for it that the finest type of gentleman in the world is the Irish gentleman. That should satisfy our Irish friends. People whose good opinion is worth anything will not think less of the Irish because of exaggerated stage brogue and make-up. If they are fond of humor of that sort they should be at liberty to enjoy it. No real Irishman has ever been disgraced by his stage or comic paper counterfeit.

The American public, which has had its eyes fixed with painful anxiety on Oyster Bay, will now settle back with a long sigh of relief. President Roosevelt has accepted the nomination. We don't like to make prophecies about so uncertain an event, but we have felt reasonably sure right along that Mr. Roosevelt would accept.

The Russians have lost another fight, and incidentally 1,000 men. General Rennenkampf will probably make no comment until he learns how many shots the Japs were compelled to fire before they moved down that thousand.

Enopos is to have a new hotel and a new railway station. First thing you know it will be a first-class town. Which goes to show that presidential nominations sometimes bring prosperity to others as well as the nominee.

Now it is said that the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough are not living together. It may not be long before a happy American duchess will be as rare in England as a moneybags man in Newport society.

If Mr. Folk will continue to put bootlers in prison the vote against him for governor will be cut down to the unanimous point.

It is about time for the "halitosis-as-big-as-hen's-eggs" stories to begin floating around.
